

Daniel A. Mahar, PE, QEP

Dan began his air quality career in 1982 conducting research on regional haze in the Olympic National Park. Dan has worked for the Northwest Clean Air Agency (NWCAA) doing many jobs from inspector to permit engineer. He is currently on a one year assignment with the US EPA working in the oil and gas sector for the office of Air, Waste and Toxics. Dan earned a BS from Huxley College of the Environment (WWU) and an MBA from City University. In 2002, he became a professional environmental engineer.

Dan has been active with the A&WMA for many years giving presentations at annual PNWIS conferences and helping out on a variety of conference planning committees. He served as the General Conference co-chair for PNWIS 2005 held at Semiahmoo Resort in Blaine, WA. He has served on chapter and section boards and was the PNWIS communications/membership committee chair for many years.

Dan enjoys travel and the outdoors where you'll find him biking, hiking, windsurfing or snowboarding, even on the stormiest days. He lives in Bellingham, Washington and has two adult children and a 16 year old daughter named Chloe.
